

Later, a box arrived at Gran's cottage.
"What's in it, Gran?" asked Biff.
"You'll see," said Gran.

When it was dark, Gran opened the box.
"These are night-vision binoculars," she said.

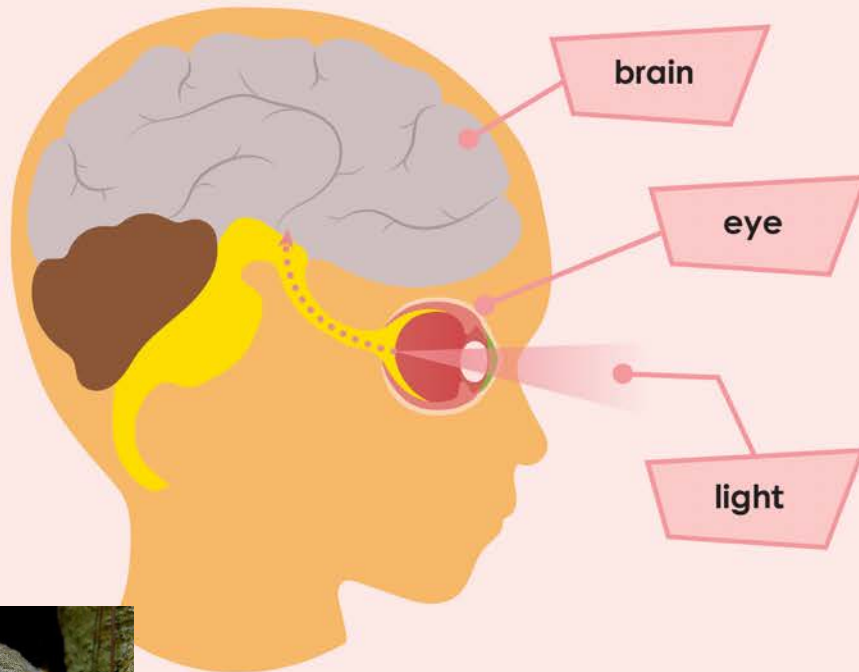

Sample pages taken from Seeing in the Dark
Book Band Level Orange

Seeing

I see with my eyes. Light goes through tiny holes in the middle of my eyes. The light makes a picture. A message is sent to my brain. The picture is what I see.

Some people wear glasses to help them see.

Glasses stop things looking fuzzy.

People who are blind find it difficult to see or cannot see.

This boy is using his sense of touch to read. He feels dots on the page.

