

Well, it all started when Albert Sparkle-Trousers zoomed up to Emily on a scooter.

Albert was the owner of Adventure Park. He was also Emily's grandfather.

The old man was steering the scooter with one hand. In the other, he held the biggest bunch of balloons Emily had ever seen.

"Good news!" Albert cheered as he skidded to a halt. "I need you to test my new ride!"

What ride is it this time?" asked a voice next to Emily.

She turned and smiled. It was her best friend Jacob.

Frank the hamster was running along in his exercise ball. At least Emily thought he was in the ball. All she could see was loads of pink candyfloss. It was Frank's favourite snack!

Albert pointed up into the sky. "The ride is up there, Jacob," he said.
