

Suddenly, a voice spoke. It was the Sat Nav. "Take the next left," it said.

Dad was puzzled. "I don't remember a turning here," he said.

"Turn left," repeated the voice.

The Sat Nav screen flashed on and off. The voice repeated the message.

Dad slowed the car. On the left was a narrow track. It led into the darkness.

"Turn left," said the Sat Nav.

Ed had a strange feeling. "I'm sure this isn't right," he said.

Dad drove the car down the track. It was steep and rocky. The old car rattled and shook.

